

Your Control Panel

Each Tekro hosted web site has a control panel to manage all aspects of your site. To access the control panel for your web site, add "/cpanel" (no quotes) after your website address. For example, let's say your site is test.com. To go to test.com's control panel, you would enter: test.com/cpanel Then log in using your account information sent to you by email when you signed up.

You can also log into your billing account, click on the top tab "Packages". Then select the package you would like to go to the control panel, and click "Panel Options". You should see a listing of "Available Panels" and if so, click on "Panel Login". If you do not see a list of available panels, contact us and we will set you up.
